

Communication Department
Landrum Academic Center 134
Nunn Drive
Highland Heights, Kentucky 41099

tel 859.572.5435 | fax 859.572.6187

www.nku.edu

April 1, 2006

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing in support of Norbert Thomas.

Mr. Thomas has been an adjunct instructor for the Radio/Television Division of the Department of Communication since the fall of 2005. With his diverse background behind and in front of the camera Norbert is able to lead a class in many different areas, but for NKU he has, to date, taught two sections of RTV 305, Multicamera Studio Production.

The student response has been predictably positive. Mr. Thomas is able to draw upon his experience in the business, but is also comfortable addressing academic issues. His students emerge from the control room classroom commenting upon how diligent they must be to acquire the skills he demands, and how they have been immersed into the studio production process.

From a coordinator viewpoint, Mr. Thomas is what I like in an adjunct. He is knowledgeable, punctual and relates well with the student population. Scheduling issues have kept us from expanding our relationship, but I would hope that Mr. Thomas and the RTV division are able to continue our relationship as long as he is in the area. And, as you may know, that says much about an adjunct instructor.

If you have any questions about Mr. Thomas, please don't hesitate to contact me by any of the means listed below.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Chris Strobel". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name "Chris" and last name "Strobel" clearly legible.

Chris Strobel

Assistant Professor
Coordinator, Radio/Television Division
Department of Communication
College of Informatics
Northern Kentucky University
Landrum Academic Center 120
Highland Heights, KY 41099

(859) 572-1426
strobelc@nku.edu